

Women's Rights National Historical Park

Celebrating the 160th Anniversary Special Programs

Additional Ranger Programs
July 19, 2008

11:30 a.m. and 2:00 p.m.
In Stanton's Footsteps Walking Tour
Begins in the Visitor Center, 136 Fall Street, Seneca Falls.

Join a park ranger for a guided walking tour along a portion of the route that Elizabeth Cady Stanton walked in 1848 for the first woman's rights convention. Along the way, learn more about the Village of Seneca Falls and the people--in 1848 and later---who worked with Stanton toward the goal of woman's rights. The walking tour will begin at the visitor center, 136 Fall Street, include the Wesleyan Chapel, the site of The Lily printing office, the Presbyterian Church, the restored railroad station, and return to the Wesleyan Chapel. Expected to last approximately one hour and covers one mile.

Eleanor Stearns is an historical actress who has also researched and written portrayals of Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Clara Barton, Emily Dickinson, and Amelia Earhart. She has presented her Women of Vision programs throughout New York and neighboring states.

David Anderson, Ph.D. is a living history performer of Civil War veterans and various personalities of the era. He has been a featured storyteller at the "Clearwater Greater Hudson River Revival" and at schools, colleges and other settings in 24 states, and in Ghana, West Africa.

The Friends of Women's Rights National Historical Park (WRNHP) is a not-for-profit organization dedicated to assisting the park in preserving and interpreting the nationally significant historical sites, structures, and events associated with the early struggle for equal rights for women.

WomEnchant, is a feminist chorus from Ontario directed by Laura Thomas.

Coline Jenkins is the great great granddaughter of Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Henry B. Stanton and the great granddaughter of Harriot Stanton Blatch. In 1998 she became the founder of The Elizabeth Cady Stanton Trust to ensure the legacy of her family heritage is part of the historic fabric that weaves America together.

Ellen Carol DuBois, Ph.D. is a professor of History at University of California at Los Angeles. DuBois is one of the premier scholars on Elizabeth Cady Stanton in the United States and has published, edited, and authored over twenty works centered around the life of Elizabeth Cady Stanton. She wrote a biography of Harriot Stanton Blatch in 1997. Her current work surrounds the international women's movement from 1923 through 1975, with a focus outside of Europe and America.

Barbara Blaisdell is a living history performer who lives in Rochester, New York. She has portrayed Susan B. Anthony for over 17 years.

Hutchinson Family Revival performs sentimental, patriotic, comic, and inspirational popular music from 1840-80 in period costume. Their performances re-create a family musical group from New Hampshire, The Hutchinsons. The original singers were social activists who sang for anti-slavery and woman's suffrage events.
